

GIRLS OF WESTERN HIGH LIKE HOCKEY

Fink-Cheeked Lassies in Middy
Blouses Play Game With Vigor and Skill.

By EDITH LOBERT.

"Close formation for a bully-off!" Miss E. H. Thomas, physical director at Western High School, blew her whistle.

Immediately there was a rush for the center of the girls' athletic field, a whirl of hockey sticks through the air and a couple of dozen pink-cheeked lassies in middie blouses were closing in to wait the "bully-off."

What if somebody's riotous looks did tumble down? What if somebody's nose did get shiny in the exertions attendant upon the mad pursuit of the shiny ball?

What Man Reporter Would Admire. If I were a man reporter person, I suppose I would go into raptures over the rosy cheeks and the graceful swing of the well-rounded arms.

Which are all very well in their way, but I'm going to admire the good, healthy lung power and the vigorous muscle which come from wholesome competition in the open air.

Hockey too strenuous for girls? Not the way they play it at Western High.

Every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon, when the weather is fit, the hockey squads swing their curved sticks over their shoulders and scramble up the steps across the road to the new athletic field, recently acquired.

This space is devoted exclusively to the use of the girls, who use it for basketball occasionally, and expect to erect tennis courts there later.

How They Raised Fund. The price of many an ice cream soda went into a fund this summer for the conversion of a small dwelling on one corner of the field into a clubhouse.

"Each of us earned a dollar this summer toward a fund," one breathless lassie informed me as she took "time out" to tie a frantically shoe lace—no, not hair ribbons.

"I gave up ice cream soda for a week," she continued, "and I know one girl who wanted a new dress for a dollar."

The fund has now reached the proud proportions of nearly $300, contributed entirely by the girls who are interested in athletics.

There are to be no more intercollegiate competitions at Western High among the girls, Miss Thomas informed me.

Want All To Benefit. "We want all the girls to get the benefit of the athletic work here," she said, "instead of having a picked team in each sport set both the glory and the benefit of the physical training."

"So hereafter we are going to have class competition instead. This gives everybody a chance, and we think promotes a far greater interest generally."

"How did the girls come to take up hockey?" I asked her, my mind intent upon battles royal in Northern foxhounds which takes a strong athletic "blaze" like gender, to play the game.

"I learned the game from an English woman when I was in college," she said, "I told the girls about it, and they seemed so enthusiastic about it I decided to try it out."

"Field hockey, of course, has not the element of danger that ice hockey has. It isn't a bit more strenuous than the old-fashioned skating every boy knows about."

"And it serves admirably the main purpose, which after all is to get the girls out of doors, and into action in the fresh air!"

Fresh Air For All. "I wish more young women, whether high school girls or not, would get out into the fresh air and exercise, if it's nothing more than walk around the block several times."

"Are you an advocate of 'hiking'?" she was asked.

"Indeed I am. And what is more these girls know what real cross-country walking is. We climb up hillsides, and scramble over rocks, and through brush, and come back thinking what a glorious old world it is out of doors!"

Basketball is well under way. Teams now in the process of organizing and the regular games have begun.

It is not likely that the hockey practice will continue much longer, Miss Thomas said.

With the regular gymnastic work and the basketball activities now getting into full swing, the hockey devotees will have to put up their sticks until next Easter.

And if you want to see a real embodiment of the spirit of the West look in on a bunch of Western High School girls chasing a ball around a field.

Community Christmas Tree Fund Passes $500

The community Christmas fund is officially announced as $500, but Chairman White of the finance committee admitted that several more checks came in after the list of subscriptions was prepared, which raised the amount to more than $500. Although there is still need of money, Mr. White and his associates feel safe in the preparations for the fest.

There will be rehearsal of the Christmas chorus every night this week beginning tonight. The Y. M. C. A. singers will hold a rehearsal tonight, and the Y. W. C. A. portion of the chorus tomorrow night. Prof. Otto Simon, who is supervising these rehearsals, also anticipates one for the pupils of Eastern High School on Tuesday night.

Real Noah's Ark For A Christmas Gift

SCITATE, Mass., Dec. 14.—The two grandchildren of Thomas W. Lawson, who are also the grandchildren of former Congressman Samuel McCall, of Massachusetts, will receive a real Noah's Ark for Christmas. It will be chased by the carloads as a freight car, but it is built in imitation of Noah's Ark, and contains the following: One hundred and fifty Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island red hens, which will lay eggs during the trip between here and Crook, river, Oregon; two prize roosters, two Bismarck ducks, which are longer than the trip; two English bull pups, two Jersey and Holstein cows, two Jersey bulls, and four little pigs.

Admits He Tried to Kill Officer.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 14.—Fredrick Reichardt, discharged naval prisoner, who made an unsuccessful attempt Friday on the life of Major George C. Thorpe, U. S. M. C. commandant of the naval prison here, has admitted his guilt.

THE "BULLY-OFF" IN WESTERN HIGH HOCKEY GAME

DR. SHELLEY MARRIES BALTIMORE WOMAN

Wedding of Rockville Man Takes Place at St. Paul's Church in Washington.

ROCKVILLE, Md., Dec. 14.—Dr. Joseph V. Shelby, a veterinarian of this place, formerly of Washington, and Miss Bertha C. Claussen, of Baltimore, were married in Washington Thursday evening by Rev. James F. Mackin, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic Church.

Upon pleading guilty in the police court here yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct, Waverly Hill, a young negro, was fined $5 and costs. He was committed to jail.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Griffith, widow of Philmon H. Griffith, who died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edwin Waters, at Georgetown, this county, will be held at the Waters home at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The interment will be at Mt. Airy, Md.

Mrs. Griffith was seventy-five years old. She was a native of Frederick county and lived there the greater part of her life. Before her marriage she was a Miss Wood. She leaves four sons and three daughters, as follows: Harry Griffith, of Alexandria, Va.; Tan Griffith, of Philadelphia; Philip Griffith, of Baltimore; Guy Griffith, of Iowa; Mrs. Reid, of North Carolina; Mrs. Joseph Waters, of New Market, Md., and Mrs. Waters.

Peyton Whaley, Montgomery county's new sheriff, has increased his list of deputies by the appointment of President Hewitt, of Rockville.

Governor Goldsborough has commissioned Maurice E. England, a deputy game warden for this county.

Licenses to marry have been issued by the clerk of the circuit court here to Reuben Pickrel, of Gretna, Va., and Miss Allan Bryson, of Colton, Md.; George Caleb Mercer, of Burtonville, and Miss Carrie Elizabeth Henson, of Laurel, Md., and Howell Franklin, of Washington, and Miss Clara Cleveland Utz, of Madison county, Va.

Funeral services for Charles B. Roger, who died suddenly of heart failure at the home of his brother, Frank Roger, in Washington, were held yesterday afternoon at the Rockville cemetery and were conducted by Rev. Thomas H. Houghton-Burke, rector of Christ Episcopal Church. Mr. Roger was for many years a resident of this vicinity.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

Paul Armstrong, the author of "The Deep Purple," "The Romance of the Underworld," "Allan Jimmie Valentine," and other well-known dramas, is the writer of "Woman Proposes," the new vaudeville sketch purporting to show that woman does not inspire man with the desire of marriage, and which will be given at B. F. Keith's Theater next week.

The Clover Club of Georgetown University will go to New York Saturday to present "The Maid of Marne" at the Plaza Theater that evening. It will be played for sixteen weeks in the various theaters in the city.

The friends of Lieutenant Brewster, of the United States Marine Corps, will be particularly interested in a film Burlesque Holmes will present at the Columbia Theater tonight and tomorrow afternoon, which shows in moving pictures the part Lieutenant Brewster and his mounted marines are playing in the protection of the foreign colony at Peking.

Oliver Metzger, treasurer of the Columbia University, is one of the most active members of the committee that has charge of arrangements for the visit of the Triangle Club of Princeton University to the Belasco Theater a week from tomorrow afternoon.

"Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," George M. Cohan's successful musical play, will be the attraction at the Poli Theater in the near future. Following the opening week in Washington it will be played for sixteen weeks in the various theaters in the city.

An announcement of unusual interest is the engagement for early January at the New National of Charles Dillingham's "The Lady of the Slipper," which the latter all star show has been sent into New York for a run at the Knickerbocker Theater.

"The Conspiracy" has been substituted for "The Henrietta," as the Christmas attraction at the Columbia Theater, as the latter all star show has been sent into New York for a run at the Knickerbocker Theater.

William Faversham, now appearing on the Pacific Coast in "Julius Caesar," is the latest of the world's great actors to be approached by a moving picture.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

ETHELYN SMITH,
One of the Leaders in Athletics at Western High School.

Motion Pictures Teach Children Concentration

So much has been said about the effects, both good and evil, of moving pictures upon children, that a discussion of the subject by H. E. Aitken, president of the Mutual Film Corporation, is of particular interest at this time.

Mr. Aitken approaches the subject from rather a different angle than that used by the majority of those who have discussed it, and if his theory is correct, even to a small degree, the rising generation of picture fans stand to revolutionize every department of the arts and sciences.

"The very first training pictures give to a child," suggests Mr. Aitken, "is also the most necessary to its success in life. That is, 'application.' Gradually and unknowingly, the child learns to sit in a chair with his attention riveted on the screen, to follow the action, to follow the changing pictures, to follow the changing scenes which are not supplemented by any words that are given at B. F. Keith's Theater next week."

"But, as important as the power of concentration is acknowledged to be in the scheme of educational development, it seems to me that we can expect of moving pictures an even greater boon, from the standpoint of training the youthful mind and also of improving the thinking power of adults. Few laymen realize the amount of material of 'meat' that is contained in an ordinary photograph. For instance, the usual evening's entertainment on our theaters, is told in pictures in a few minutes."

The result is, that the person watching a moving picture drama thinks many times faster than the one watching a static picture. Not only do events follow each other in rapid succession upon the screen, but the mind of the child picture-theatergoer is kept in a state of constant alertness, and the different scenes are taken in at a pace that was unknown in the pre-cinematographic age."

"If you will pardon the coined word, I would say that this quality of perception is the reason the general public was won over to picture going only after several years of effort was due to the fact that the average brain was not trained to grasp the significance of the real significance of the dramatic action presented to make the moving picture sufficiently interesting. The possibilities of the human mind trained to an unknown point of perfection by an agency that was not discovered until a few short years ago, presents a new line of thought that is well worthy of consideration."

William Faversham, now appearing on the Pacific Coast in "Julius Caesar," is the latest of the world's great actors to be approached by a moving picture.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

"FRESNO DAN" FLEES WOULD-BE BRIDES

Heir to Big Estate in Massachusetts Sought in Vain by Seventeen Women.

MELROSE, Mass., Dec. 14.—Seventeen women, all seeking the hand of Fresno Dan Russell, in marriage, since he announced his intention of finding a wife after inheriting more than $100,000, are seeking in vain this morning.

"Fresno Dan," the man of mystery, over whom one of the most spectacular identity fights ever waged in the courts has just ended, has fled from Melrose after learning a procession of would-be brides was scheduled for Sunday on the Russell estate in Melrose.

Detectives and police were stationed early this morning on the grounds, and as the husband hunters arrived they were forbidden entering the estate, and were also informed that "Fresno Dan" had decided that discretion was the better part of valor.

The trouble was started a week ago, when the heir to the Russell estate announced that all the women in Melrose were "old hens," and that he would like to find a real woman for a wife.

Concerts at Keith's.

There will be two concerts at B. F. Keith's Theater today, one at 3 p. m. and the other at 8:15. The attractions presented will be Jack Wilson, Ada Lane, and Jack Boyle, in "An Impromptu Revue," Ralph Lynn and company, with Helen Juliette, in "The Purple Lady," Gertrude Vanderbilt, and George Moore, in "The Purple Lady," and Myrtle Young, Eddie Love and Janette Wilbur, Louise Galloway and company, offering "The Little Mother," De Lasso brothers, the Fatima motion pictures of world-wide happenings, and the pipe organ recitals.

Visited Geo. M. Cohan.

Hugh J. Ward, one of the managing directors of the Australian firm of theatrical producers, J. C. Williamson & Co., Limited, who is making his headquarters in New York, was in Washington last week visiting George M. Cohan and his parents. He returned to Philadelphia on Wednesday, going over to New York the following day. Mr. Ward is looking for American plays for his main theaters in Australia and South Africa.

General Manager C. J. Hite, of the Thanhouser Moving Picture Company, is authority for the statement that marines in the theatrical profession have greatly increased since the advent of moving pictures. Since the manufacturing of pictures has assumed such large proportions many hundreds of actors and actresses have, for the first time in the history of the drama, been able to work and live in a fixed locality for fifty-two weeks of the year, with no fear of being forced to "go on the road."

This fact has made it possible not only for the actor to marry, but also to build his own little home and spend some of his evenings there. Mr. Hite points to several marriages that have taken place in the Thanhouser Company, and also the large number of romances that have led to the altar in the Thanhouser Company, and also the large number of romances that have led to the altar in the Thanhouser Company, and also the large number of romances that have led to the altar in the Thanhouser Company.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

DREW IS CHRISTMAS CARD AT NATIONAL

Will Present J. M. Barrie's Refreshingly Original Drama, "The Will."

John Drew will be the Christmas tenant of the New National stage next week, when he will be seen in a new double bill of exceptional interest.

He will appear in James M. Barrie's new drama, "The Will," in which he effectively impersonates a man at three vital epochs of his life. Like all of Barrie's work, "The Will" is declared to be refreshingly unique and original, and its characters are drawn with all the mastery of art of this great English playwright.

Preceding "The Will," Mr. Drew will present "Haddon Chambers' four-act comedy, 'The Tyranny of Tears,' one of the most delightful comedies in the Drew repertoire. Laura Hope Crews, Mary Roland, Hubert Bruce, Elliot Dexter, and Sidney Herbert are prominently cast in both the plays.

The Belasco Theater, instead of next week producing "The Great Adventure," as previously announced, will offer a new photoplay entitled, "The Traffic in Souls," the presentation of "The Great Adventure" having been postponed to New Year week.

This last now being shown at the Joe Weber Theater in New York to capacity business. It is stated that this subject will also be presented at David Belasco's Republic Theater, when Mr. Warfield goes on tour with "The Auctioneer."

"Fresno Dan," the man of mystery, over whom one of the most spectacular identity fights ever waged in the courts has just ended, has fled from Melrose after learning a procession of would-be brides was scheduled for Sunday on the Russell estate in Melrose.

Detectives and police were stationed early this morning on the grounds, and as the husband hunters arrived they were forbidden entering the estate, and were also informed that "Fresno Dan" had decided that discretion was the better part of valor.

The trouble was started a week ago, when the heir to the Russell estate announced that all the women in Melrose were "old hens," and that he would like to find a real woman for a wife.

Concerts at Keith's.

There will be two concerts at B. F. Keith's Theater today, one at 3 p. m. and the other at 8:15. The attractions presented will be Jack Wilson, Ada Lane, and Jack Boyle, in "An Impromptu Revue," Ralph Lynn and company, with Helen Juliette, in "The Purple Lady," Gertrude Vanderbilt, and George Moore, in "The Purple Lady," and Myrtle Young, Eddie Love and Janette Wilbur, Louise Galloway and company, offering "The Little Mother," De Lasso brothers, the Fatima motion pictures of world-wide happenings, and the pipe organ recitals.

Visited Geo. M. Cohan.

Hugh J. Ward, one of the managing directors of the Australian firm of theatrical producers, J. C. Williamson & Co., Limited, who is making his headquarters in New York, was in Washington last week visiting George M. Cohan and his parents. He returned to Philadelphia on Wednesday, going over to New York the following day. Mr. Ward is looking for American plays for his main theaters in Australia and South Africa.

General Manager C. J. Hite, of the Thanhouser Moving Picture Company, is authority for the statement that marines in the theatrical profession have greatly increased since the advent of moving pictures. Since the manufacturing of pictures has assumed such large proportions many hundreds of actors and actresses have, for the first time in the history of the drama, been able to work and live in a fixed locality for fifty-two weeks of the year, with no fear of being forced to "go on the road."

This fact has made it possible not only for the actor to marry, but also to build his own little home and spend some of his evenings there. Mr. Hite points to several marriages that have taken place in the Thanhouser Company, and also the large number of romances that have led to the altar in the Thanhouser Company, and also the large number of romances that have led to the altar in the Thanhouser Company.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—Frank Coles has just started a sentence of 100 days in jail for stealing a bulldog from a policeman and selling him to the policeman's best friend for $2. John Keyes was the patrolman, and the police were not inclined to make the facts public at first.

Stole Policeman's Dog, Gets 100 Days in Jail